

OUR NATION HEALS

Coming Home to Our Whole Selves

"It is my hope that through the work of this important initiative and the conversations it will encourage as well as our upcoming documentary that thousands of other Indigenous brothers and sisters ~ off-reserve and on ~ can Come Home to our whole selves for our families and our future as OUR NATION HEALS."

~ Charlene SanJenko

"Our journey in life is marked with many moments of learning and growth. Through this series "Coming Home", join us as we lay a foundation of healing for the thousands of children who were lost but not forgotten to the systemic genocide of Canada. We have a responsibility to pass on a legacy of intergenerational healing to those yet unborn."

~ Wenecwtsin (Big Voice that Speaks the Truth)

Media Release: OUR NATION HEALS

Coming home to our whole selves

OUR NATION HEALS is a healing community-based initiative that combines the power of Indigenous storytelling, digital media arts, and the rippling impact of co-facilitated, small-group listening circles. It inspires hope.

With support from the Province of British Columbia, a pilot program will begin in Fall 2022. OUR NATION HEALS is co-created and co-facilitated by former Kukpi7 Wayne Christian and Splatsin member Charlene SanJenko. The program launches in Splatsin (Enderby, BC).

Re-imagine the future with OUR NATION HEALS

Understanding the collective power of community storytelling, Kukpi7 Wayne Christian and Splatsin member Charlene SanJenko invite community members between the ages of 18 to 35+ and parents of young children, to participate in a series of interactive listening circles, explore tools, and contribute to a community dialogue that will explore an implementable framework to heal.
